Aid for Small Incomes May Be Made in Congress

President May Revive Excess Profits Tax, Member of House Committee Says; Also May Ask Some Cooperation

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa.) said today he looks for President Truman to urge a revision of the 1948 income tax cut.

The idea, said Eberharter, would be to pass more of the savings along to low income groups by boosting the levies for those in the upper brackets.

Eberharter, a member of the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee, also predicted that Mr. Truman will revive his excess profits tax proposal.

However, some of the President's advisers are known to take a dim view of such a move because of its possible effect on business.

There has been considerable speculation that before Mr. Truman reaches any definite decision on business taxes he may renew his plea to industry to lower prices—and profits.

The President had little to say about an excess profits tax during his campaign. But he took several husky swipes at the income tax cut bill which the 80th Congress wrote into law over his veto.

He called it a "rich man's" bill.

The main features of that measure are (1) a $100 hike in the personal exemption to $600; (2) extension of the community property principle to all states, letting husbands and wives split the family income for tax-saving purposes, and (3) percentage cuts in tax rates ranging from 12.6 per cent in the low income brackets to five per cent at the top.

Eberharter did not say what sort of revisions he thinks Mr. Truman has in mind. But in his own tax reduction proposal early this year, the President suggested that each person be allowed a $40 "cost of living" tax cut—a plan that would make the percentage saving big for low-income people but tiny for those in the high brackets.

The President estimated the cost of his plan at $3,200,000,000. He proposed that amount be made up by an excess profits tax.

When he called Congress back into session after the political conventions last summer, Mr. Truman again renewed his profits tax plan as the top item on an eight-point anti-inflation program which both the Republicans and Democrats largely ignored.

Fears Effect On Business

One high-ranking White House aide told a reporter shortly after the President's upset election victory last week:

"I wouldn't like to hear talk about an excess profits tax now. Perhaps business has had enough of a shock."

It remains to be seen what luck Mr. Truman will have with tax matters in the new Democratic Congress. Rep. Doughton (D-NC) who will return as Ways and Means Chairman after a two-year interval of Republican control, supported the G.O.P. tax cutting bill in its final form. And he made no fight for the President's Profits Tax Bill, introduced by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich.).

In any event, the White House

DeGaulle Is Given Sweeping Victory In French Election

Communists Lose Four-Fifths of Their Seats in Council; National in Scope

Paris, Nov. 8 (AP)—Almost complete returns today gave Gen. Charles de Gaulle's anti-Communist rally of the French people (R.P.F.) a sweeping victory in yesterday's elections to the upper house of the French Parliament.

The Communists, present majority party in the Council of the Republic, lost more than four-fifths of their seats and will be a low-ranking party in the new council.

The elections were national in scope, but the balloting was done by local electoral colleges instead of directly by the people.

The returns showed that the R.P.F., taking part in a legislative election for the first time, will have about 40 per cent of the 269 seats at stake yesterday. The Colonies will elect another 51 members next month, bringing the new council to its full strength of 320.

Although a de Gaulle spokesman claimed the R.P.F., had won 121 seats the Interior Ministry gave it only 99 on the basis of the latest vote count. The semi-official French pressagency gave it 107.

With only seven seats missing, Interior Ministry figures said this was the divisions of the council seats:

R.P.F.—99.
Radical Socialists (Conservatives) and affiliates—50.
Socialists—48.
Independents—21.
Communists—16.
Popular Republicans (M.R.P.)—15.
Others—13.

Of the R.P.F.'s 99 seats, 55 belong to the party outright and the others are from affiliated groups.

The Communists now hold 84 seats. Their drop to 16 occured largely because of a change in the voting system that permitted all Noncommunist parties to form coalitions against them.

De Gaulle's group fell far short of gaining a majority of seats in the Council, which is an advisory body to the National Assembly with no powers of direct action. It is virtually impossible, however, for any one party to win complete control of Parliament because of the number of political parties in France.

Gen. de Gaulle was not a candidate for a Council seat. The smashing victory may prompt de Gaulle to hasten his campaign for return to power. He is expected to use his show of strength in yesterday's elections to prod the National Assembly, the nation's main legislative body.

De Gaulle wants the Assembly to dissolve itself and call for general elections which, he claims, will give him a mandate from the people to take over the government.

His party has no explicit social program. Its chief plank is anti-Communism.

Vote Is Against Acceptance

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—A.F.L. Longshoremen voted 16 to 1 against accepting the last wage offer of their employers in six east coast ports, the National Labor Relations Board reported today. A Taft-Hartley Act injunction stayed off a walkout of approximately 25,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association more than two and a half months ago.

GOP Lineup To Undergo Alterations

Dewey's Second Loss May Cause Removal as Titular Leader of Party

None Is Standout

Minority in Congress Not Considered 1952 Candidates

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—A scramble for Republican party leadership—with Harold E. Stassen among those taking part—apparently is in the making as an aftermath of last Tuesday's election.

Despite an assertion by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that he has no plans to step down as titular G. O. P., head, his second straight defeat for the presidency may leave him little to say about future Republican policies.

These policies largely will be shaped by the Republican minority in Congress.

There such familiar figures as Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska, House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts and Floor Leader Charels A. Halleck of Indiana will be in the saddle.

But none of these is a standout now for the Republican presidential nomination in distant 1952.

Instead, some of the Republican politicians who have caught their wind after the surprise drubbing given them by the Democrats are beginning to look outside the formal Congressional leadership.

Those catching their eye include men like Stassen, Senators Irving M. Ives of New York, William Knowland of California, Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut, Leverett Saltonstall and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts and Homer Ferguson of Michigan. Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio is mentioned among House members.

Governors who might be regarded as available for one of the top spots on the ticket four years hence include Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, Ernest W. Gibson of Vermont, Luther W. Youngdahl of Minnesota and Frank Carlson of Kansas.

Has Free Hand

While most of the new crop of Republican hopefuls hold public office, Stassen has perhaps as good a forum as any of them in his presidency of the University of Pennsylvania. His understanding with the university is that he is to have a free hand to engage in politics.

Stassen's appeal to many Republicans lies largely in their belief that he has widespread influence among younger voters.

It was this asset, more than any other, which was said to have led Dewey to forget some of Stassen's pre-convention cracks and invite his former opponent to take an active part in the campaign.

In a week-end news conference at Albany Dewey exhibited a stack of telegrams from students and others and said:

"The youth of the country has evidenced in this flood of wires that they believe the Republican party is the best instrument for their futures to insure a country with opportunity for young people."

The defeated G.O.P. nominee blamed Republican over-confidence, in part, for the Democratic victory.

In some other quarters, however, Republicans were blaming loss of the farm vote for their defeat.

Senator Aiken (R.-Vt.) told a reporter he thinks that despite Dewey's assurance to the contrary, farmers were "afraid the

Meyers' Conviction Upheld by Court

Circuit Appeals Tribunal Says He Induced LaMarre to Lie

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld the conviction of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers on charges of inducing another person to lie under oath to a Senate committee. The court split 2-1.

Meyers has been in jail since last March 14, serving an 18 months to five years sentence imposed after his conviction in U. S. District Court.

The case against him grew out of a Senate investigation of wartime air force contracts.

Meyers, now retired, was the

Thomas Indicted On Fraud Charges Against Treasury

Indictment Says Senator and Secretary Conspired to Take Away U. S. Funds

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ), chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, was indicted today on charge of conspiring to pad the payroll of his Congressional office.

His former secretary, Miss Helen Campbell, was charged jointly with him by a Federal grand jury.

The jury has been investigating published charges of payroll irregularities in Thomas' office. He was called last week to testify but declined to do so.

The indictment accused Thomas and Miss Campbell of conspiring to maintain fictitious employes in Thomas' house office, so the salaries paid to these persons could be routed into Thomas' bank account.

The indictment alleged that Miss Campbell's niece, Myra Midkiff, and a maid in Miss Campbell's home, Arnette Minor, were carried on the Thomas office payrol land received monthly checks without actually working for the government.

It was alleged that Miss Midkiff and Miss Minor, upon receiving their government checks, indorsed them over to Miss Campbell who deposited them in her personal checking account. Thereafter, according to the grand jury, Miss Campbell withdrew this money by check and deposited it in the account of Rep. Thomas in the First National Bank of Allendale, N. J.

Covered by Fraud

The indictment said that "with the intent of concealing and covering up the fraudulent and fictitious employment" of Miss Midkiff, the Congressman and Miss Campbell prepared income tax returns in her name, with Thomas paying the tax due on the salary listed for her from the government.

The indictment formally charged Thomas and Miss Campbell with a "conspiracy "to defraud the United States of its money and property."

At his Allendale, N. J., home, Thomas said "I have nothing to say at all at this moment." He said he might have a statement later.

The committee headed by Thomas was in the spotlight throughout the year in its investigations into Communist and subversive activities during and since the war.

Thomas was re-elected last Tuesday. However, he will lose his chairmanship when Democrats take control of Congress in January.

The conspiracy was alleged to have run from January 1, 1940, to January 30, 1945.

Accused Only of Conspiracy

Miss Campbell was accused only of the alleged conspiracy. Thomas was charged with conspiracy and also with a series of overt acts in the filing of allegedly false claims.

In addition to the alleged fictitious employment of Miss Midkiff and Miss Minor, the New Jersey representative was charged with presenting for payment salary vouchers for Jacqueline B. Hill for "services rendered

'Blue Baby' Gains In Health, Is Venezuelan Report

Child Born in Ellenville September 14; Mother Is Former Accord Resident

MRS. PARRA AND SON

Michael Parra, Jr., who came into this world less than two months ago at the Ellenville hospital, and was later found to be afflicted with a heart ailment of the blue baby type, is currently reported "doing well" under the care of a specialist in Caracas, Venezuela.

Michael made the trip from the home of his grandaparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Knowles of Accord, to the South American city, with his mother, Mrs. Michael Knowles Parra, late in October.

The mother and child boarded a plane of the Venezuelan Airlines October 20 and were in Caracas a day later, according to Mrs. Wilfred Knowles.

It was a courageous trip for the 27-year-old mother and her infant son, who was then only five weeks old. He was born September 14 in the Ellenville hospital and three weeks later doctors discovered that he had the heart affliction.

Mrs. Parra had come from Venezuela last August 26 to live with her parents in Accord so that the baby might be born an American citizen. She was advised after discovery of the ailment, to take her son to New York for an examination.

A doctor at Cornell University Medical College examined the child and told Mrs. Parra it would be two years before it could be told whether an operation would help.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Parra desired to join her husband who is with the Venezuelan Department of Agriculture. The doctor at first warned against a plane trip back, but granted permission when he learned the plane's cabin would be pressurized and oxygen available.

An account of the plane trip revealed that by coincidence two Venezuelan doctors were among the plane's 31 passengers.

Inquests Are Halted; Shots Disintegrate

Chester, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP) — Inquests into the deaths of eight persons killed by a crazed gunman were delayed today because the bullets fired in the victims' bodies had disintegrated.

Ballistics experts reported yesterday that physicians who performed autopsies on the victims of the shooting fray Saturday found only small metal particles which could not be used for analysis.

Chief Detective Fred Jack said the killer, Melvin Collins, used .22 caliber stub-nosed long-lead bullets, drilling small holes in the nose of each slug.

The small hole in each bullet, Jack said, formed an air pocket causing the slug to explode on hitting the bodies of the seven men and one woman slain by Collins as he fired from his barricaded second floor room overlooking the Chester business district.

Jack said Collins shot himself to death after the other shootings.

Man, 32, Is Held On Murder Charge In Providence

Tells Police Mother of Two Refused to Go Away With Him

Providence, R. I., Nov. 8 (AP)—A 32-year-old man who told police he kissed a mother of two children 13 times and then strangled her because she refused to go away with him was held today on a murder charge.

North Providence Police Chief Anthony B. Caranci said Henry A. Williams, father of three, calmly admitted in an oral statement he throttled Mrs. Genevieve Singleton early yesterday.

Caranci said Williams would be arraigned in Providence District Court today.

Williams was held in $50,000 bail for the December grand jury after he pleaded innocent to a charge of second-degree murder.

The police chief said Williams gave this version of the slaying:

The couple went to a Providence night club and discussed going away together to California. Mrs. Singleton went to the powder room and Williams asked the orchestra leader to play a request number, "One to Ten."

When Mrs. Singleton returned, Williams told her he could predict the next number and got her to wager that if he was right she would go to California with him.

After the playing of "One to Ten," the couple left and drove to a secluded spot in nearby North Providence. Williams started to kiss Mrs. Singleton 32 times because it was her 32nd birthday.

As Williams kissed her for the 13th time, she pulled away and said she would not go to California.

Then, Williams was quoted by Caranci as saying, he seized her by the throat. They struggled and toppled in the back seat where the police chief said, Williams re-

Diplomats Also Expect Decision on How Long Marshall Will Stay in Cabinet

To Discuss Moves

Truman Likely to Talk Over Future Action With Russia

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall probably will visit Washington before the end of the month.

His mission will be to report to President Truman on the United Nations meeting at Paris and review outstanding American foreign policy problems.

But diplomatic authorities here believe a decision also will be made on whether and how long Marshall will stay in the cabinet after inauguration day January 20.

Marshall is known to want to retire, but there has been talk that Mr. Truman may ask him to remain and lend a hand with such impending problems as seeking Senate approval of an American military alliance with the principal countries of western Europe and the North Atlantic area.

It seems probable that the Chief executive also will want to review with his secretary of state future moves in the cold war and determine whether any improvement may be possible in relations between the western powers and Russia.

Some speculation about this possibility has been caused among diplomats here by what they regard as the conciliatory tone of Foreign Minister Molotov's speech in Moscow Saturday.

Molotov took the line that the defeat of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in last week's election showed that the American people oppose a "policy of aggression."

Have No Significance

Some authorities said that if Molotov believes Mr. Truman's election means an abandonment of the bi-partisan foreign policy then his words have no significance. But, they added, if Molotov sought to indicate a Soviet willingness to seek reasonable settlements on the whole range of east-west issues—from the Berlin crisis to the control of atomic bombs—then the prospects for peace are brighter than they have been for some time.

The attitude of American officials is to wait and see what actions the Russians take as a result of Mr. Truman's victory at the polls.

All available evidence is that the Truman administration intends to go forward rapidly toward its overall foreign policy objective of strengthening western Europe and such other areas of the world as it is able to help against the expansion of Soviet power through spreading Communism.

The administration already is prepared to take further steps toward drafting the proposed military alliance with Canada, Britain, France, and the low countries.

But at the other end of the cold war front—in China—American policy is much less definite for the moment.

Officials here declined any formal comment on the probability of a post-election conference between Mr. Truman and Marshall. But the tip-off that Marshall expects to see the President came in a dispatch from Paris late last week revealing that the secretary was uncertain whether he could be present personally to accept a degree from the University of London in mid-November.

Mr. Truman left yesterday on his Key West, Fla., vacation, expecting to be gone about two weeks. The duration of his Florida trip indicates the time at which Marshall probably will arrive since there has been no evidence that he will visit the President at Key West.

Raymond Monfetti, 16 Unhurt in Local Accident

Raymond Monfetti, 16, of 71 Abbey street, was knocked to the pavement but was apparently not injured when the bicycle on which he was riding collided with an automobile at the intersection of Foxhall avenue and Highland avenue about 8:30 p. m. Sunday, the police reported.

Police said the bicycle collided with an automobile driven by Ralph William Boss, 304 Greenkill avenue, who was driving across Foxhall avenue from Prince street and was about to enter Highland avenue at the time of the accident.

Boss told police he took the youth to his home on Abbey street, where the youth said he was not injured.

Presidential Bid for Price-Ration Controls Is Seen Bringing Congressional Opposition

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—The new Congress may look with a cold eye on any new request from President Truman for standby price control rationing powers.

But an Associated Press survey of members who will serve in the 81st Congress convening January 3 shows strong backing for the Marshall Plan, for repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, and for high support prices for farm products.

That's the situation now on the word of 27 Senators and 235 Representatives-elect who expressed their views in the survey. It is, of course, subject to change as conditions themselves change.

But if the vote were taken today, here's how it would go insofar as the 262 senators and representatives are concerned:

1. Farm Price Supports. The members were asked if they favor farm price supports at present levels, which generally are 90 per cent of parity for basic commodities. Yes, said 135 Democrats and 53 Republicans. A few called for support at 100 per cent of parity—the price declared by law to be fair to both farmers and consumers. Six Democrats and 10 Republicans opposed the supports. Forty-four others, 17 Democrats and 27 Republicans, weren't certain.

2. Standby price and rationing powers. The question asked was: "Do you favor giving the President power to fix price controls and allocations?" Of those who took a definite stand, 93 Democrats and 4 Republicans said they do. But 27 Democrats and 76 Republicans, a total of 103, said no. The others shied away from an answer.

3. Taft-Hartely repeal. The question: "Do you favor repeal of the Taft-Hartley law?" The answers were full of reservations. Of the 94 Democrats and 8 Republicans advocating repeal, several qualified their position by insisting on a substitute law. Flat votes against repeal were cast by 22 Democrats and 52 Republicans, while 37 Democrats and 33 Republicans called for amendments to the law or revisions in the Wagner Act. Most of the newly-elected House members who replied said they favor repeal.

4. Foreign aid. Asked if they favor continued foreign aid through the Economic Cooperation Administration and direct aid to Greece and Turkey, 150 Democrats and 69 Republicans said yes. Only 11 opposed the plan, while 18 Democrats and 14 Republicans gave no opinion. Of the 11 opponents, 2 are Democrats, 8 Republicans and 1 an American-Laborite.

But there were widespread suggestions that Congress should give the E.C.A. program a thorough looking-over before voting any more funds.

One of the old-timers, Rep. William Lemke (R-N.D.), blamed the Taft-Hartley law for the defeat of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey by President Truman.

"If that sucker hadn't been passed, Dewey would have been elected," Lemke said.

Rep. Earl Michener (R-Mich.) elaborated on his opposition to Taft-Hartley repeal, saying: in five years "there won't be an intelligent labor man who will oppose it."

West Coast Maritime Strike May Be Concluded Soon

San Francisco, Nov. 8 (AP)—A formula for reopening negotiations held promise today of quick settlement in the 67-day west coast maritime strike.

Resumption of negotiations awaits the arrival of national C.I.O. representatives from Washington.

Employers and strikers agreed last night on a formula which they said they hoped not only would end the strike but would insure waterfront peace in the future. The agreement called for the national C.I.O. to participate.

The national C.I.O. and the San Francisco Employers' Council would underwrite any accord negotiators might reach, the agreement said, and act as a check on future disputes that might threaten strikes or lockouts. The C.I.O. would in effect police its local unions and the council its local waterfront-employer members. (The council is a general organization covering all lines of business here, not just shipping firms.)

Leaders of the C.I.O. Longshoremen, C.I.O. Marine Cooks and Stewards, and waterfront employers all approved and initialed the two-way peace plan last night. Three other unions are involved in the strike but are not likely to present obstacles to a coast-wide return to work.

Negotiators must reach their own settlement of the present strike; the agreement provides only a formula for resuming the negotiations. But it does add that if no settlement is reached in 10 days, union members must vote on the employers' last offer.

A public statement by the unions noted that shipowners were dropping their previous insistence

Ives Hopes Party Will Bring Forth More Liberal Folk

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—Sen. Irving M. Ives (R.-N. Y.), blaming the record of the 80th Congress for G.O.P. defeats in last week's election, says he hopes there will be "more liberal Republicans" as a result of the voting.

Sailing with his wife on the liner Queen Elizabeth yesterday for a month's visit to England, France and Italy, Ives told newsmen:

"The defeat of the Republicans can be ascribed to difficulties the party faced because of the inability of the 80th Congress to get together on a forward-looking, liberal program which would meet the conditions in the country as they exist.

"We are moving forward in this country. We are not static, and unless a political party recognizes that fact and governs itself to meet conditions with an adequate program, that political party is not going to get very far."

Ives said the Republican party platform was "good but, unfortunately, not backed by the record of the Congress."

Hearings Are Begun

Newark, N. J., Nov. 8 (AP)—The State Board of Public Utility Commissioners today began hearings on an application by the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company to raise its rates $16,036,000 per year. Attorney General Walter D. Last year the company received a rate increase amounting to $10,515,000 per year.

New Things Made For Comfort May Be Causing Cancer

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—The new things science is making for comfort and pleasures may be causing some of the increase in cancer, Dr. John R. Heller, Jr., of the National Cancer Institute, has reported.

To find out, he told the annual meeting of the American Cancer Society, a new kind of research laboratory is being set up at Georgetown University Medical School. This laboratory will study environment's role in cancer.

Nearly all the known causes of cancer, said Dr. Heller, are external—they are things man comes in contact with in his work or his community. They do not come from his own body.

This, he added, has caused suspicion that search will uncover many more external causes of cancer.

"Industrial progress," he said, "has been marked by many new substances contributing to the comfort and pleasures of life. But these same substances have been adding a whole new spectrum of poisons to man's hazards. Some are carcinogenic agents—that can cause cancer. The danger lies in the slow, almost unnoticeable harm that comes from contact with these agents."

He named coal tars and arsenic compounds as already known causes of cancer. Even arsenic in drinking water has caused cancer of the skin. Other causes which he said are proven are soot, paraffin oil, creosote, nickel carbonyl, benzol and some dyes.

For fair-skinned people, Dr. Heller said, too much sunshine can cause cancer. Radioactive substances, now becoming plentiful with atomic energy, are among the most dangerous known causes. Wastes that get into the air, water and ground from industry need to be studied.

Dr. Heller said that the synthetic oil industry, that proposes to make tomorrow's gasoline out of coal, may carry new cancer hazards. These dangers he said are not proven, but neither are they disproven, and they should be studied.

A list of things not to worry about was given by Dr. Herbert L. Lombard, director of the division of cancer and other chronic diseases of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. All were taken from beliefs about cancer.

Drinking boiled water is not a preventive. You can't catch cancer at funerals. Syphilis is not the cause of cancer. Don't bother, as one woman did, to get a full-length, three-way mirror to look at yourself every day for signs of cancer.

Don't be like the editor who had a lip cancer removed, and then refused to print anything about the disease because he said he didn't want to hear anything more about it.

IMPROVING THE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

If America's children are to grow up into self-governing citizens, they must have education suited to their needs. The shocking fact is that millions of them are not in school at all or get very meager advantages.

Vermont Grower Uses Bates Grader

Joseph A. Wellwood, the Springfield, Vt., man who this year purchased three fruit sizing and polishing machines from George G. Bates of Hurley, was featured in an article in the Rutland, Vt., Daily Herald on September 27.

The article states that, according to all reports, "he has the largest and best crop of McIntosh apples south of the center of Vermont and east of the Mississippi river."

Wellwood told a Herald correspondent that 97 per cent of his McIntosh will be fancy grade. Credit for this is due, according to the article, to the control of apple scab and to the use of the three machines ordered from Bates. These machines are said to be the first of their kind used in Vermont.

"The apples are graded in an open shed by three new grading machines, the first of their kind in Vermont. Wellwood went to Kingston, N. Y., to see these graders when he heard that they would grade the easily-bruised McIntosh apple without damage. He talked with George Bates, inventor and manufacturer of the machines, and ordered three of them," the article stated.

Control of the apple scab is done by spraying at exactly the right time, Wellwood said. He uses a speed sprayer which sprays 30,000 gallons a day. He estimated his yield at close to 1,000 tons or 70 carloads of apples from his 4,000 trees.

Horticultural Show Plans Are Under Way

About 30 representatives of the New York State Horticultural Society, 4-H Clubs and Farm Bureaus met recently at the Governor Clinton Hotel to plan for the annual convention and exhibits here January 26, 27 and 28. The Kingston Chamber of Commerce was asked to cooperate in helping arrange a program for a ladies' day. This will be a new feature of the program. The delegation was headed by Donald W. Greene of Chazy, president, and Daniel Dalrymple of Lockport, secretary of the Horticultural Society.

All meetings and exhibits of this annual convention will be held in the State Armory on Manor avenue. The sessions start at 10 a. m. each day and close about 5 p. m. Wednesday evening an open informal session will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel and the banquet takes place Thursday evening, January 27. It is expected that the convention will bring about 3,000 persons to Kingston during the three days.

AFTER THE ELECTION

It is in very close elections, like the one just concluded, that the fitness of a people for Democracy is most severely tested. In some countries a close election is the signal for outraged charges of fraud, for the rallying of an army to advance the claims of the loser, or the planning of some coup by which the result may be reversed. In this country, whether the margin of victory be a landslide or a hair, the people close ranks on the day after election and become one, united behind the leaders who have been chosen.

It may be hard in the present case for some foreign observers to accept the fact of our political solidarity following this election. Indeed some may not wish to do so. It is imperative that we as a people, and the President as our reaffirmed leader, make our unity unmistakably clear to the world.

Now that the election is over, there is hard work to be done. The bi-partisan foreign policy is to be reiterated and pursued with new vigor. The promises of the campaign are to be converted into action. There are great tasks at home and abroad with which we must get on.

And as President Truman returns to the tasks of his office, all of us, no matter how our ballots were marked, will say in the terse words of the late Wendell Willkie: "He's my President now."

Fame sometimes comes quickly. The 1939 "Who's Who in America" does not mention General Eisenhower, and of the other generals and admirals who served brilliantly in the war it includes only Marshall, King, Arnold, Stark and MacArthur. There is no Bradley, Patton, Halsey or Nimitz.

PLANNING AIR POWER

A reassuring silence of harmony seems to have settled over the high offices of the national defense establishment since the adjournment of Congress. Small outbreaks of opinion, however, bursting at intervals from sources of lesser rank, indicate that the rivalries of the services are far from ended.

One of the important differences is between the Navy and Air Force, over the question of who should perform long-range strategic bombing in the event of a war. Air Force strategists study the problem of long-range bombing with the idea in mind of using heavy, land-based planes. Naval planners think of it as a job for new types of carrier-based attack planes, to range from such floating bases as the projected 65,000-ton super-carrier.

What is needed as an essential part of a modern defense system for this country is an authoritative planning body which can and will approach the problem of strategic bombing, and all other problems of military operations and development, without any preformed ideas of making use of a certain service or specific weapon. The country's defense should be planned with no objective except to achieve the needed ends, and the planners should be prepared to use without prejudice or favor the service or combination of services best fitted to reach each objective.

Some citizens, now disillusioned, thought they were going to get that kind of planning and coordination from the new Department of Defense. One of the early tasks Congress should undertake is to make further revisions in the defense set-up so as to assure sound planning on a national rather than a service basis.

WINTER DRIVING

Anticipatory action by all motorists before winter actually sets in is urged by Commissioner Fletcher. State and national traffic accident records indicate that the principal causes for very high winter accident rates are poor visibility and inadequate traction.

Motorists should have the lights, battery and heater inspected to be sure they are in good condition for bad weather. Rain, snow and fog interfere with vision while wet leaves increase the dangers of skidding.

As aids to good traction on snow and ice, tire chains, good brakes and good common sense are recommended.

Political denunciation is getting tame. Not a single speaker this year has even approached the standard set by Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, when that former president, then temporarily off the G.O.P. reservation, said, "The Republican party is a whited sepulchre inhabited by second-story men".

If Russian negotiators seem to be more persistent than their American adversaries, there may be deep reasons. Failure or blunder is unhealthy for Russian politicians, but for Americans they just mean an excuse to retire and write memoirs.

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

SECRETARY OF STATE

The Constitution makes the President responsible for the conduct of foreign affairs and gives him a Secretary of State to do the work. The American Secretary of State is not a Minister of Foreign Affairs in that he has no political responsibility. The responsibility is the President's. The founding fathers made that clear in his title: He is a secretary.

Some Secretaries of State were powerful men who directed their offices with courage and capacity: Thomas Jefferson, John Marshall, James Madison, James Monroe, Daniel Webster, John Hay, Elihu Root, Charles Evans Hughes—to mention a few. Some of them even overshadowed the President as Hughes certainly did Harding. Others were mere attendants of their Presidents as Robert Lansing was to Woodrow Wilson. Some permitted the President to reduce their office to part of the White House secretariat, as happened with Cordell Hull and Edward R. Stettinius during the Roosevelt Administration.

The office is flexible, its authority dependent upon the personality of the President and his attitude toward the incumbent in office. George Marshall has been able to be his own Secretary of State; that is, he has conducted the foreign policy of this country without too much presidential interference. On the other hand, as Mr. Truman conducted his campaign for election to the Presidency, he stepped into the realm of foreign relations to make votes for himself. This may have been a temporary attitude resulting from political necessity, or it may have been a product of that amazing egotism that has actually produced, against all odds, a winning election. He may now desire to be his own Secretary of State, reducing that office to the low estate of the Roosevelt Administration. He may still send Vinson to Moscow!

George Marshall is willing to resign and probably will. It is assumed that many of the top figures in the State Department will also leave. It is possible that James Forrestal will have to go, first because at this moment in our history the Department of State and the Department of Defense have to be integrated for policy, and secondly, because he has had trouble with the White House clique. So we shall undoubtedly see vast cabinet changes that may alter the complexion of this administration.

Assuming that George Marshall resigns, who will succeed him? We are in the midst of a war with Soviet Russia which is different from other wars only in the processes employed. Thus far, Soviet Russia has won some major victories: Hungary, Czechoslovakia; Korea and Manchuria. We have produced a few halting successes Iran, Turkey, Greece and the airlift over Berlin. The present battlefields are Western Germany, France and China. In Western Germany we are successful; in France and China we are currently failing; in France because we insist on a wishy-washy policy to avoid De Gaulle; in China, because of George Marshall's dislike for Chiang Kai-shek. Should Soviet Russia succeed in either country, we shall lose the current war and will then have to revise our policy. Either we shall have to accept isolation of a kind no America Firster ever dreamed would be possible, or we shall have to use armed forces and bombs to work our will.

The present war with Soviet Russia is fought through the State Department. The next war will be fought through the Department of Defense. The new Secretary of State will have to have these qualities: 1. He will have to have and hold the respect of President Truman; 2. He will have to understand the nature and problems of Western Europe and China; 3. He will have to be able to convince the President that winning political support at home by actions within the field of international relations may lead to failure in our current war and produce with greater speed the fighting war which no one in this country wants.

Who is such a man? Mr. Truman may ask the Chief Justice, Mr. Vinson, to serve. His difficulty, during his first term, to attract top men to his service may have been due to the shortness of his term and the assumption that he would not be continued in office. It is different now.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE MANY CAUSES OF ALLERGY

When we think about the new science of allergy and that many physicians are specialists in this field, allergists, most of us have in mind allergy caused by inhaling certain substances such as ragweed, pollen and house dust causing hay fever and asthma, or of eating certain foods such as strawberries and shellfish which cause hives and stomach upsets.

What we fail to remember is that allergic symptoms can be caused by drugs injected into the body or under the skin, and also by substances which come in contact with the skin. Thus, there are four groups or classes of substances that cause allergy: 1. Inhalants; 2. Ingestants; 3. Injectants; 4. Contactants.

The inhalants are classified in turn as: (a) Dust in factories or the home; (b) agents of animal origin; (c) agents of vegetable origin—pollen, plant products other than pollen and scents of plant origin; (d) fungi—common air molds, smuts and rusts; (e) chemicals.

House dust and dust from occupations in factories and flour mills, and the threshing of wheat are common causes of allergy. House dust from the patient's own home is used in the treatment of dust allergy.

Animal allergy comes from furs and feathers, from dander of horses or from the clothing of those who work among horses; the hair of cats, dogs, cattle and the bristles of hogs; sheep's wool and silk clothing; silks, glue and bone dust.

Allergens of plants include pollen of various plants and trees. The seeds of fungi or molds also are a frequent cause of allergy.

Finall, chemicals and the fumes or odors of chemicals cause allergic symptoms, especially from formaldehyde and ammonium vapors.

The above information on the first group of substances causing allergy, the inhalants, recorded in "Physician's Bulletin," gives some idea of the many unsuspected causes of allergic symptoms. The other three groups will be discussed at a later date.

Look, No Victory

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—My wife has been making things quite difficult for me ever since Election Day.

She talks about "that cute little Harry" and won't let me forget that I predicted he would not be re-elected.

"Such a nice little man," she says, "and he got no help from anyone. The liberals were against him, the conservatives were against him. Everybody was against him—but the people."

I have reminded her that at least I predicted a Democratic Senate and that I reaped a harvest of squawks and jeers even for doing that. But she isn't satisfied.

"No, you can't alibi," she says. "I know you too well. That poor little man fighting all alone, and you discouraged him by predicting he would lose. Such a nice man, I just love him."

"Listen," say I gruffly. "Mrs. Truman isn't going to like hearing you say that about her husband. And I don't either. Love and politics don't mix."

"This wasn't politics," replies Mrs. P. "This was a lot bigger. This was bigger than any victory Roosevelt ever won, because Roosevelt never had Wallace and the Dixiecrats running against him. I want you to tell everyone what a really great victory this was."

"They don't need me to tell 'em," I argue back. "They know it. Besides I tried to call the shots all during the campaign. I said a lot of nice things about the President. I was about the only one who defended his idea of sending Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow. I compared his courageous war record with Dewey's farm draft deferment. I told about his devout desire for peace and his reluctance to drop the atomic bomb. I defended him on a whole raft of things. But..."

"Yes, I know your alibi," says the wife, not even willing to let me finish what I was going to say. "The Republican editors cut all the nice things you said out of the column. So what? Then say them on the radio where you aren't censored.

"I want you to come out on the radio," she demands, "and give Harry a great big hand. You're chairman of 'Be Kind To Pussy Week'—why don't you start a 'Be Kind To Harry Week'?"

"Incidentally, you're always going in for Democracy contests and slogans," continues Mrs. P., who is now really steamed up "I'll give you a slogan free. You won't have to pay me $20,000 in prizes. Here it is: 'Don't Hamper Harry, Help Him.'"

Message To Truman

Well, that ended that. However, Mrs. P., who has good sense about most things (except pigs), hit the nail right on the head.

It was a great victory, in a sense greater than Roosevelt's victories because Truman fought it singlehanded, with a divided party, and with an extra quota of nonpaying deadheads dragging their feet on his bandwagon.

So, to the President of the United States I would like to say:

"Although I was wrong in predicting your defeat, I am glad I was wrong. And after that grand fight you put up, and regardless of any names you may have called me, I don't know anyone I would rather eat humble pie for than a good sport and a great battler like you.

"You, Mr. President, now have your own mandate from the people. You won it entirely on your own. You need feel no inferiority complex that you were a political accident who came into office through another man's choice.

"Nor need you feel any obligation to some of the Cabinet Judases who buttered you up to your face, while making deals with the enemy behind your back; nor to others in your official family who don't pull their full weight on the oar. The people will applaud if you get rid of them; if you banish entirely all Government-by-cronies.

"The Nation is expecting big things of you, Mr. President—big things in extremely trying times.

"For my part I would much rather write of the good than the bad. And though I know you believe in fair criticism, I for one would like to urge that we work, strive, give as a united nation and 'help Harry, not hamper him' to make democracy live."

Election-Went-Round

Flushed friends of Harry Truman were talking with him at Independence, Mo., regarding the chief factor behind his victory. He said it was hard work. "I grew up on a farm where you have to work for what you get," remarked the President. . . . While Truman's campaigning undoubtedly won him votes, Wallace's didn't. Here are the tell-tale figures: Of Wallace's 986,771 votes, 844,189 came from eight states. The rest of the country where he gathered crowds just didn't vote for him. In other words, 40 states were not affected by his trips or his radio broadcasts. . . . The only three cabinet members who really worked for the re-election of their chief were Attorney General Tom Clark, Secretary of Agriculture Charlie Brannan and Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin. They rolled up their sleeves. . . . New Speaker Sam Rayburn has grave doubts as to whether the new Congress will tolerate Congressman J. "Kickback" Thomas, regardless of whether he is convicted for taking salary kickbacks from clerks and stenographers. . . . Republican Governor Kim Sigler of Michigan was defeated by a young protege of Justice Frank Murphy—Mennen Williams. Williams, whose grandfather founded the Williams soap and Mennen's baby-powder business, came to Washington as aide to Murphy when he was attorney general. . . . Watch Williams. You can figure on Williams challenging the seat of Senator Homer Ferguson the next time around. . . . The man who swung last-minute votes against Sigler was Mayor George Welch of Grand Rapids, president of the Mayors Conference of America. He whaled thousands of votes away from Sigler by telling Michiganders how Sigler knifed the plan to rebate part of the sales tax to Michigan schools and cities. . . . Shrewdest move Truman made in the entire campaign was reconvening the 80th Congress right after the Philadelphia convention in July. When the Republicans adjourned without acting on inflation, price control, housing or teachers' pay, etc., it clinched more votes than any other campaign issues. . . . It was Col. Jake Arvey, Democratic boss of Chicago, vigorous opponent of Truman's nomination at Philadelphia, who got out the biggest crowd for him of the entire campaign.

Phenomenon of Error in Public Poll Forecasts; 'Undecided' Vote Is Held as Key

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 8—Merely to admit one made a wrong forecast on the election outcome is not to explain why all forecasts went wrong. The phenomenon was not a matter of mere judgment in politics, for campaign managers on both sides went wrong, too. Not one but all public-opinion polls went wrong, though taken by a variety of different organizations and with different methods throughout the country.

Re-examination of the data collected by one of the larger polling organizations indicates the following:

First, the true significance of the "undecided" vote was not detected. It was assumed to be a vote that would stay away from the polls. Although four and five times as large this time as the "undecided" vote was four years ago and although the persons interviewed were very largely Democrats according to answers they revealed concerning their votes in previous years, they nevertheless told the interrogators they were "undecided." This vote unquestionably turned to Truman and made the difference in the result.

Second, the nation-wide polls were completed about a week or ten days before the election and therefore could not take into account whatever happened in the last week to cause the "undecided" voters to make their decisions.

Third, none of the poll organizations had any means of measuring the reasons which would cause many people who said they would vote to fail to turn up on election day at the voting booths. Was it genuine apathy or overconfidence or the belief that the election was a foregone conclusion anyway?

Fourth, there was no means of knowing until the last minute what influenced the Wallace voters to return to the Democratic Party from which most of them had temporarily strayed.

Again and again during the campaign there were evidences that the Democratic Party in a time of prosperity was the logical winner. The fact that the popular vote would be close and Dewey might be a minority president if he won was foreseen in these dispatches on September 14. But this was not related, as it should have been, to the existence of a tide in favor of the incumbent administration because of what it had done in getting high farm prices on the one hand and high wages on the other.

The combination of favorable voting for the Democrats in rural areas, traditionally Republican, and in the big cities, where the labor-union vote was mobilized, should have been, on the surface, a definte indication that the administration in power was more likely to win, and that it was up to the Republicans to do the most intensive campaigning if they were to unseat the incumbent administration.

Looking back over dispatches written during the campaign, this writer referred to these trends, and particularly to the likelihood that the Wallace vote would evaporate. It was argued repeatedly that the voters inside the Democratic party were getting from Mr. Truman's campaign speeches the left-wing doctrine which was so dear to the groups that had been deserting to Wallace. As remarked on September 10, this writer could not understand why the Wallace vote was being estimated at such a large amount by the polls when actually Mr. Truman, by espousal of the civil-rights program and by accepting virtually every important point in the Wallace program except its apparent relationship to Russia, was cutting the ground from under the Wallace voters.

Basically, the Wallace appeal was on the ground of left-wing and New Deal doctrine on domestic issues and peace with Russia in the international field. Mr. Truman did support a firm and "get tough" policy with Russia, but at the same time he showed that he was interested in maintaining peace. The ill-fated Vinson mission was basically a sound approach though the timing was wrong. Nevertheless, there were millions of voters who did not perceive in it any ineptitude when Mr. Truman later explained it. All they saw was that the President was trying to maintain the peace and that he would do everything in his power to prevent war with Russia. Mr. Truman himself sensed the necessity of avoiding a crisis, and even when the Berlin blockade was apparently in its most exasperating stage, he was reassuring the people that there was every likelihood of peace being maintained. This was wise strategy from a political standpoint, too.

When some of my reporter friends, returning from trips throughout the country, reported that the congressional and senatorial races were close, I asked them why, if this were the case, Truman wouldn't carry some of those same states. They pointed always to the public-opinion polls. It seemed as if the tide which was running in the congressional and senatorial races would be present also in the presidential race. Actually, as it turned out, it was a tide in favor of the party and the President himself from which the congressional candidates benefited.

What the writers and poll-takers have learned from the election is simply this: As long as the electoral system prevails and a few thousand votes either way can turn the electoral majority it is a mistake for anyone to regard such polls as necessarily conclusive especially when there is every indication, as all the poll-makers prophesied, that the popular vote would be close.

Thus the election results show that if less than 100,000 persons out of the 47,000,000 who voted last week had expressed their preference for Dewey instead of Truman in Ohio, Illinois and California or if the Republicans in those states had brought out a little bit more of their vote, the country would now be hailing the public-opinion polls and the forecasts based on them as remarkably accurate.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The election returns mean no more than a party victory to the old professional hacks of the big cities—O'Dwyer, Hague and Curley of the active list and Earley, Flynn and Kelly of the ancients.

It may mean no more than that to President Truman. But to the cunning and highly intelligent conspirators of the left it means that the American Republic that prospered and created a standard of living beyond comparison in history is done for.

Now we go Socialistic after England and we are never coming back. Truman's 81st Congress will come in snorting for the blood of the aristocrats whom the President so noisily damned. The mob-rule of the union gangsters has been vindicated by the response of his theatrical shrieks against the Taft-Hartley Law, which now will be repealed, thus restoring the right of club and torch to the brown shirts of the party. Within a short time, under a fair construction of the response to one of his great campaign issues, Mr. Truman will restore price controls and the black markets with their fine business opportunities for deserving partisans. Rationing will soon ensue as a measure "short of war" so that we may feed and otherwise supply the people of Europe, who, we hope, will have the kindness to stand off the Russians for us.

These peoples, however, will weigh their chances and decide not to be implicated in our evil designs lest the victorious Russian hordes apply the Nuremburg precedent and hang them as war criminals. We could hardly object to that, remembering that we laid down that law, and we certainly couldn't raise a hand in their defense. Indeed, with the rise of the Kremlin's own party in the United States during that time, a Henry Wallace government might hang them first, as war-mongers who created bad blood between us and our Bolshevik brothers.

fact that if Mr. Dewey had been elected, he, too, almost certainly would have had to revive most of the shortages, coupons and intricate files of personal pedigrees which Roosevelt so dearly loved, in preparation for the Roosevelt Memorial War. That war is inevitable thanks to the warm-hearted errors of the Great Philatelist in recognizing Russia, cultivating the Communist Party here and propitiating Stalin in gallant pilgrimages to Teheran and Yalta.

To those Americans who have lived long enough to see the decline of freedom from the days of substantial wealth and comfort, low taxes and immunity from the peering of the F.B.I., the Army Intelligence, the Treasury and agents of the Anti-Nazi League, the present is irksome and future ominous. The younger people, however, have never known peace of mind, simplicity and the plain security that a man earned at a working job. They have no basis for comparison. They never knew 1913. When Truman told them that their high wages were a gift from him and Roosevelt he wasn't deceiving them except on the point that the inflation was created by Roosevelt to equalize the raises in pay. They get three times their worth as workmen in dollars worth a third in rent, clothing and food.

It is an amusing fact, for all things must pass, that the degradation of American people and their commitment to the Roosevelt Memorial War with Russia are the work of European strays who were invited here as inferiors but wouldn't keep to their slums. On the contrary, they went to night school, studying Marx and subcourses in rioting, street fighting, picketing, provocation, parliamentary tactics and public speaking. The Americans, pleasure-bent, generously ignored them. The Americans were a little surprised but lacked the intelligence to be alarmed when they discovered these people all over Washington, thick as flies in the unions of the C.I.O., and thicker mid the pleasures and palaces of Palm Beach and Saratoga where the humble native cannot go.

The journalists, bookmakers and pollsters, as Mr. Truman called them, who scratched him and gave Dewey a walkover are more to be pitied than scorned. The President's own daughter said she, too, was overwhelmned by the surprise and all the headquarters professionals in honest confidences admitted that on the dawn of Election Day they stood by to bury Truman, not to cheer him. The vote was a political mistake because it was almost entirely a blow struck at the Congress in response to Truman's strangely juvenile and bush-league attack.

Actually it was a good Congress, but he had to get rid of the blame for his own disasters, and draw attention from the great disaster of impending war. So he tore into the 80th, which had no means of defense as strident and dramatic as his attack.

To his own astonishment he won by a protest vote against a blameless culprit. It certainly was not an endorsement of Truman's tragic error in Berlin where he forgot to provide access to his south forty. Any American farmer should have quit him for that, the more angrily since his mistake already has cost lives of a dozen young American army fliers and hundreds of millions of taxes. However, the air lift is good practice for the Roosevelt Memorial War Fund and Mr. Truman may have occasion within a year or two to take credit for this foresighted intensive training of a large corps of airmen under simulated war conditions in time of peace.

None is so rich or mighty that he can get along without it, and none so poor but that he can be made rich by it.

A smile creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in business, and is the counter-sign of friendship.

It brings rest to the weary, cheer to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad; and is Nature's best antidote for trouble.

Yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed or stolen for it is something that is of no value to anyone until it is given away.

Some people are too tired to give you a smile, so, give them one of yours, as none needs a smile so much as he who has no more to give.

The fellow who puts his money on a horse's nose usually makes a monkey of himself.

We have never been able to understand why anyone should expect to make drunkeness an excuse for the commission of a crime.

Mrs. Snicher—Getting this $50 from my husband was like taking candy from a baby.

Mrs. Shoach—Yes, he certainly did put up a terrific holler.

The present day slogan is, "If at first you don't succeed send for an efficiency expert."

She: "Like my earrings? They once belonged to a millionaire."

He: "Yeah, who?"

She: "Mrs. Woolworth."

She: Where were you last night?

He: Well, in the first place—

She: I know all about the first place—where did you go after that?"

Teacher: "Freddie, give me a sentence using the word diadem."

Freddie had overheard certain remarks at home and out of his subconscious store of worldly wisdom he drew this reply:

"Drivers who hurry across railroad crossing, diadem sight quicker than those who stop, look and listen."

C. of C. Directors Meet Wednesday

The board of directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will hold their regular meeting Wednesday evening, November 10, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The date was changed from Tuesday because of conflict with both the Ulster-Greene Vacationland dinner meeting and the regional National Affairs meeting in Poughkeepsie.

Among the items on the program Wednesday night the following will be found: appointment of an election committee, plans for the annual dinner, reports of committee activities, should a Community Chest be recommended for Kingston and the executive secretary's report.

The directors welcome suggestions from all members or anyone who is interested in promoting the welfare of Kingston.

All Are Evacuated From Canyon Area

Santa Ana, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—Evacuation of all residents from Silverado Canyon, an area of some 500 large homes and estates, was ordered today as the Orange county brush fire spread wildly, fanned by 50-mile an hour winds.

Four buses and several large trucks were sent from El Toro Marine Base to remove persons from the area.

The State Division of Forestry, reporting the situation as the "most serious yet," said hundreds of professional and volunteer firefighters were on the lines.

The blaze had been centered in Black Star Canyon, but high winds whipped it out of control toward Silverado and Modjeska Canyons, where wealthy Santa Ana businessmen maintain large homes. Some 100 homes are in Modjeska Canyon.

The Weather Bureau predicted "winds of gale force through passes and river valleys to coast," and said freezing temperatures could be expected above 3,000 feet.

High winds in the San Fernando valley uprooted palm trees, and in one instance tossed a lumber yard woodshed into Topanga Boulevard. Power lines were torn down, and a section of Van Nuys was in darkness for a time.

Greyhound Passenger Is Hurt in Accident

One passenger of a Greyhound bus was injured slightly when it was in collision with a sedan on Route 9W a mile north of Highland at 5:45 p. m., Sunday, according to the state police at Highland.

The injured woman, one of 19 passengers on the bus, was identified as Mrs. Richard Decker of Paterson, N. J., and was treated at the scene by a doctor from Highland for injuries to the left leg and hip.

The bus, operated by Henry Dockelman, 37, of Belmont, L. I., was headed south on the route and the sedan, driven by Valmer Cross of Lexington, was traveling in the same direction. They collided as the sedan was turning left at the end of one of the islands in the four-lane highway.

State Trooper Joseph Pollock of the Highland state police barracks, investigated.

Fire Damages Sign And Window Frame

A fire which apparently originated in an electric sign at the Raimond Beauty Shoppe, 31 North Front street, was discovered about 7:05 a. m. Sunday by Patrolman Joseph Fallon and was extinguished by firemen before extensive damage was done, the police reported.

Patrolman Fallon sent the alarm from Box 1432, Fair and North Front streets, summoning the fire department and volunteers.

The fire was near a sign in the window on the second floor beauty shop, which is located above the Endicott-Johnson Shoe Store. Witnesses said the damage was confined to the sign, a charred window frame, a window broken from the heat and slight smoke damage on the wall.

Arrest Is Threatened

Columbus, O., Nov. 8 (AP)—Sheriff Ralph J. Paul threatened today to arrest 30 strike pickets who defied his order to disperse at the American Zinc Oxide Company plant, but he later changed his mind. He announced he would not move against the pickets unless the company obtained a court injunction limiting the number. The company was debating whether to do this. The sheriff earlier had read the state riot act to the group and warned the strikers they would be arrested if they did not disperse within an hour.

Magician Sustains Two Slashed Wrists

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—A man who identified himself as Fred Keating, 45, a magician widely known for making a bird in a cage disappear, was taken to a hospital early today with both wrists slashed.

Police said his injuries were self-inflicted.

Patrolman Alexander Alcock said Keating went to his hotel room early today and a short time later called the hotel clerk and told him, "I am cut."

Keating was a headliner in vaudeville for years with an act featuring a program of magical tricks and a humorous line of chatter.

His chief trick was making a bird cage containing a live bird disappear in air. Recently he has appeared in night clubs as a magician and master of ceremonies.

Keating sometimes assumed roles as a serious actor. In 1945 he appeared as leading man to Tallulah Bankhead in a summer tour of the comedy, "Her Cardboard Lover." He also had a leading role in the Broadway production of the musical, "Yours in My Heart Alone."

A native of New York city, Keating also has appeared in such Hollywood films as "Shanghai," "Tin Pan Alley" and "The Captain Hates the Sea."

Johnson Says He Has His Reasons About Stalin

Tronto, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Very Rev. Dr. Hewlitt Johnson, "Red Dean" of Canterbury, has his reasons for believing that Prime Minister Stalin is not a dictator.

Dr. Johnson, now touring Canada, told a public meeting last night that during a recent trip to Russia he visited Stalin and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. He said he asked that Russian women married to Britons be allowed to leave the Soviet Union to join their husbands.

Stalin asked how many such women there were.

"About 30," the Dean replied.

"It will be done," Dr. Johnson quoted Stalin as saying.

Stalin then corrected himself ("I often wonder if Molotov kicked him under the table," the Dean added in an aside) and said:

"It will probably be done. That rests with the chief Praesidium," Russia's interim legislative body.

"Then I knew he was not a dictator," Dr. Johnson said with a chuckle.

About the Folks

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—A halting forward movement was maintained with difficulty today in the stock market.

Gains ran from fractions to around a point with some leaders pushing up more than two points.

A heavy volume of business at the opening dwindled rapidly. Dealings later in the day were light.

The higher prices were a continuation of the rising tendency shown Saturday at the end of a week that saw the heaviest losses in more than eight years.

Among the best gainers were U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Studebaker, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Electric Power & Light, Anaconda, Firestone, Eastman Kodak, American Woolen, International Paper, Goodrich, Case, Oliver Corp., United Airline, and Gulf Oil.

Lagging were Chrysler, Woolworth, Douglas, Consolidated Natural Gas, American Can, du Pont, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco, Philip Morris, and Mission Corp.

Stocks in the curb were mixed. Among the more active stocks on the higher side were Salt Dome Oil, American Thread Preferred, Central and South West Corp., and Cities Service. Unchanged were North American Light & Power, Darium Steel, and Electric Bond & Share. Lower were Niagara Hudson Power, and Kaiser Frazer.

The bond market was quiet and narrow with the rail loans among the best on the day.

Savings Banks Have Plan for More Income

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 8 (AP)—A three-point program designed to boarden their sources of income has been set up by New York state's 131 savings banks.

The program, approved by 600 bankers at the 55th annual meeting of the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York, calls for:

"1. An amendment to the state banking law to permit them to put their money in bonds not now on the legal list "for technical reasons." (The law prohibits savings banks from investing in bonds other than those listed by the state as "top grade" securities. As a result, the bulk of savings banks' assets now is in government bonds.)

2. Revision of the state banking law to permit an individual to carry an account up to $10,000 instead of the present $7,500 limit.

3. A law to permit savings banks to invest in mortgages outside the state of New York.

The bankers, in turn, were urged by William J. Levitt, a Manhasset, N. Y., builder, to ease their requirements for mortgages under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

"At the present time," Levitt said, "it is almost impossible for a veteran to secure a G.I. mortgage for almost any percentage of value."

"In the last six or eight months, the situation has fast deteriorated so that today there is practically no mortgage money available on a G.I. basis. This, in face of a considerable amount of money lying in your banks which should be placed to produce revenue."

If the savings banks continue to shun G.I. mortgages, he said, "the government will become the banker."

Greeks Delay Executions

Paris, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Greek government responded to an unprecedented plea by the president of the U.N. General Assembly by postponing the execution of 10 seamen who had been scheduled to die today. Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian foreign minister and president of the Assembly, asked the postponement yesterday in cables to King Paul and Premier Themistokles Sophoulis. Evatt said the executions would seriously interfere with attempts he is pushing here for a "Balkan peace conference" in which the Greeks would sit down to negotiate with Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria.

Three Tank Cars Burn

Kansas City, No. 8 (AP)—Three tank cars, loaded with 30,000 gallons of gasoline, and four freight cars went up in flames today in the derailment of a Missouri Pacific freight train at Dodson, Mo., a suburb of Kansas City. Three persons suffered minor burns in fighting the flames, which sent a huge billow of smoke over the southern part of the city.

Supreme Court Agrees to Rule on T-H Requirement

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Supreme Court today agreed to rule on the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley Law requirement that union officials must file non-Communist affidavits if they wish to use machinery of the National Labor Relations Board.

Validity of the requirement was attacked by the C.I.O. American Communications Association. The association appealed from a decision by a special U. S. District Court in New York which upheld constitutionality of the provision by a 2 to 1 vote.

The C.I.O. union began the litigation with a suit against Charles T. Douds, New York regional director of the labor board. Douds refused the association a place on the ballot at a union certification election by employes of Press Wireless, Inc. Douds' refusal to permit the union on the ballot was on the ground it had not complied with the non-Communist affidavit section of the act. The special court in ruling on the suit upheld validity of the section.

Evening Verse
(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

PIPE DREAMS

I dream of peace for all the earth
And vision days of joyful mirth
When you and I and millions more
May step beyond the dread of war.

I dream of Summer's balmy nights
When chill November's finger writes
And evening brings a listless sun
That slinks away when day is done.

I like to dream of distant climes
Where beauty pens a thousand rhymes
Beyond the world of daily care
On sun kissed isles I build of air.

So much is heard of global greed
Of hatred's voice, so highly keyed
It makes a fellow wish and pray
That men could live some better way.

It makes my pipe a trusted friend
For when the daytime worries end
Small rings of smoke invite the heart
To borrow joy . . . when pipe dreams start.

President Enjoys Southern Warmth At Key West Base

Key West, Fla., Nov. 8 (AP)—Harry S. Truman shed the cares of state today to frolic in the Florida sunshine.

The President of the United States started a vacation at this naval submarine base in the company of a small group of White House cronies among whom he could relax and, for the time being, forget some of the problems of his office.

For the moment, his main concern was to:

1—Bask in the sunshine in colorful trunks.

2—Walk in comparative privacy around the submarine naval base where he is spending his fifth period of rest.

The gray-haired chief executive adopted a costume which as he has worn on previous visits here—light tan slacks, a sports shirt and two-tone shoes, for his walks—and swim trunks for his visits to the beach.

Many decisions involving changes in his administration may be made before Mr. Truman returns to Washington two weeks from now. But for the present, he is in no hurry to act.

Any dismissal or resignation must be followed by an appointment. And the President has decided to proceed with care in any new appointments.

Authoritative sources said the President is pleased with most of his cabinet and their support during the campaign.

It is known that he is looking around for a new Secretary of Defence to replace James V. Forrestal when the latter steps out, and, so the official story goes, he will not press Robert A. Lovett to stay on as Undersecretary of State.

Folks around the President are speculating whether he will name Gov. Mon C. Wallgren of Washington State to an important post. Wallgren, a former member of the Senate and of the Truman investigating committee, is one of the chief executive's most intimate friends.

He was defeated for re-election although Mr. Truman carried the state. Wallgren, if he is interested, can be assured of an important post under the President.

Wallgren is expected to join the President here before Mr. Truman returns to the capital.

Vice-President-elect Alben W. Barkley and Leslie L. Biffle, director of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee, will arrive Tuesday or Wednesday. Senator J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is also coming about midweek.

There likely will be lengthy discussions before the vacation is over on the state of the union message Mr. Truman will send Congress in January. Without question it will embrace a new demand for civil rights measures which stirred controversies within the party in the south, but failed to rob Mr. Truman either of nomination or election.

This will embrace also:

A new plea for the Taft-Ellender-Wagner Housing Bill as originally proposed.

A minimum wage of at least 75 cents an hour.

Repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Authority for rationing and price controls.

Federal aid to education.

A national health program including compulsory repayment of medical costs.

May Limit Companies

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 8 (AP)—The advisability of limiting the size of life insurance companies will be considered by a joint legislative committee at a hearing Nov. 22 and 23. State Senator Walter B. Mahoney of Buffalo, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Insurance Rates and Regulations, said Saturday his group also would consider a ceiling for the amount of money such firms may invest in private business. Nearly 500 insurance company executives have been invited to the New York meeting, the first of a series.

Baruch Gives Some Hope; Asks U. S. Courage Be Seen

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—"If you're worried or discouraged about the future," say Bernard M. Baruch, "there is much evidence of the fortitude of America which you should consider before you surrender to despair."

The elderly adviser to presidents cites the Berlin airlift as an answer to any one who fears the United States is "getting soft."

Baruch, speaking on a (CBS) radio program yesterday declared: "From Valley Forge to operation vittles, Uncle Sam and his nephews have not changed anything but uniforms and weapons and vehicles. Equality before the law and change through the law—these are still the two sides to the American coin.

"Americans can make no greater contribution to mankind than to demonstrate that these qualities will survive as 'the last best hope of mankind.'"

Baruch said the United States does not want to "win" the peace—"we only want to keep the peace, and keep it not just for American, but for all free men."

KINGSTON HIGH CRUSHES POUGHKEEPSIE, 39-0

Maroon Scores First Win Over Blues Since 1937

In nine minutes they scored as many points as they had garnered in six years and in 48 minutes they accumulated as many counters as they had achieved in 11 years. That briefly, was the story of changing football fortunes and Kingston High's crushing 39-0 victory over Sam Kalloch's Poughkeepsie Blues Saturday before a meagre attendance of 1250 at municipal stadium.

Despite heavy hitting footing and the sparing use of Mike Rienzo and Jack Keating, the Maroons registered the highest score ever tallied by Kingston against the Blues since 1924 when the count was 32-0.

First Since 1937

The win was Kingston's sixth straight of the undefeated campaign and represented the first decision over Poughkeepsie since 1937. If you are interested in any more statistics, the Maroons ground out 140 yards rushing and 120 via the air arm. Poughkeepsie, with perhaps the most futile and innocuous offense of modern times, was held to a net yardage of two.

The slim attendance attributable in part to threatening weather (but the skies later cleared beautifully) indicated that the P.H.S.-K.H.S. series no longer is a ball of fire. Even with Kingston's best team since 1933 operating on the field.

Kingston was hobbled by the heavy going and started slowly but rolled inexorably in the late stages, scoring 25 points in the second half. For the last nine minutes, Bill Burke's Jayvees romped at will and came up with a TD in the closing minute.

Rienzo Scores First TD

Mike Rienzo scored the first touchdown in the opening quarter on a 13-yard dash around end after a poor Blue punt had gone out of bounds on the Poughkeepsie 35. Bill Kitsos tore over from the 12-yard stripe for the second TD after a 33-yard advance in the second quarter to end the half 14-0.

After a bad Blue punt (it was happening all day) carried only to the 21, the Maroon moved in swiftly in the third period. Titus hit Joe Albany with a pass on the 5 and after a 5-yard penalty for offside, Dec completed a TD aerial to Jack Keating in the end zone.

Jayvees Counter

Harvey Keyes was the personal hero of a 48-yard trek, carrying the ball seven straight times and finally going over from the six. A short while later John Weber intercepted a stray aerial at midfield and romped to the Poughkeepsie 18. Seven plays later Kitsos bulled over from the one for his second score.

The final marker was a Jayvee accomplishment pure and simple. A desperation Poughkeepsie pass was intercepted by Barnes on the Blues' 30. Bill Shaughnessy passed to Dick Davenport on the 16 and then hit Riehl on the two. Two plays and Shaughnessy was over. Weber plunged over for the 39th point.

Sickler-Beichert Cagers Score Easy Win in Y League

Sickler's Delivery and Beichert's Studebaker's formerly the 7th Ward, scored victories in the Y Autumn League Saturday night and the latter's was somewhat on the surprising side over Potter Brothers.

The Deliverymen moved at will to rout Governor Clinton Hotel, 40-21, with a well-balanced attack. Bloom was high scorer with 9 points.

Beichert's came from behind, 22-28 at the half, to smother the highly favored Potter's on a series of dazzling set shots by Al Thomas who racked up 22 points, high for the night. At least seven of Thomas' were from 20 feet out. McDonald's 12 markers led the losers.

Williams-Garcia Bout in Philly

Philadelphia, Nov. 8 (AP)—Champion Ike Williams gives Buddy Garcia a fighting chance tonight to qualify for a lightweight title fight.

The obliging Trenton, N. J., belter who defends his laurels at the scratch of a pen takes on the pellmell and persistent Garcia in a 10-round over-the-weight contest that promises to fill the arena to capacity. Garcia, of Galveston, Tex., is pledged to scale above the 135-pound title weight and less than 140 for the most ambitious test of his ring career.

Williams' appearance here will be his first since he blasted Beau Jack at Shibe Park July 12. Since that fight he turned aside a title bid by Jesse Flores at Yankee Stadium, New York, on Sept. 23.

Garcia earned his bid for tonight's encounter with the champion by thrashing Jimmy Collins here on Oct. 4.

Hawaiian Open To Middlecoff

Honolulu, Nov. 8 (AP)—Seasoned professionals bowed to Doc Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., in the $10,000 Hawaiian Open Golf tournament.

The club-swinging dentist clipped 10 strokes off par in winning first place money of $2,000 yesterday. A par 71 on the final nine and his record-setting 63 Saturday gave him a 72-hole card of 274.

Finishing behind Middlecoff with a 277 was Johnny Bulla, Phoenix, Ariz., who collected $1,400. He also was second here last year. An 18th hole eagle for a 281 clinched third money of $1,000 for Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, just one stroke ahead of E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., Harrison pocketed $800.

Bulla, Mangrum and Harrison all toured the 6,710-yard Waialae course yesterday in 70.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowling regained their thrones in Kingston bowling last week. "The Queen," Mrs. Rose Schatzel, knocked off 549 in the Colonial Women's loop to nose out Jo Smith of the Friendship League by two pins for high triple honors for the distaff side. Johnny Ferraro, the newly established architect, was high in the Major and among the males with 645. Gene Vogel, who fireballs the mineralite with as much enthusiasm as anybody we know, had one of those up and down weeks. From 246-622 in the Major, he slumped to 125-427 in the Independent circuit. Whatsmatta, Gene?

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

Ed Cherney, the massive St. Mary's kegler, shot a bristling 96, or just 200 pounds under his fighting weight. Tillie Taylor, former WIBC match game champion, has transferred from the Riviera Recreation to the Capitol Health Center in New York. Marty Cassio, well known in Kingston, averaging 218 in Newark Major. Tony Sparando 215 in same loop. J. Walter Scharp, chaplain of the Freeman League, had no comment on his 87. And there was nothing funny about Dave "Gag Man" Popick's 99 in the Good Neighbor League. Joe "Ki kum's" Kwasney, Carl Husta's golfing pal, had 181-187-268 in two Booster League games, missing out on high triple honors by rolling only two. Link Fisher's Town Cafe still powerhouse of Major League with 2940. Lew Hymes says please don't confuse that 139 with his golf scores.

● The Shanty Club:

Never have we seen so many "shanty scores"—111. The boys at the alleys call them something else, and sooner or later in all our bowling lives, we get them. The honor roll of the week: Dolores Wolfell, Lou Navara, Louise Russano, G. Houghtaling, Ray Amell, M. Bastian, John Dittus, W. Maisenhelder, B. Every, T. Brooks, E. Ashdown, Wolferstetg (which one?). Among the near misses were Ray Amell 110, Knute '211" Beichert 112, Mary Robinson 112, Dave Hawks of the No-Can-Do (why cantya?) had three of them 111-111-111-333 (but it was a blind). Joe McGrath slumped to 127 after several good series. Chucky Mauro's Grill in East Kingston planning permanent bench pads for Frankie Nerone after that 109.

Charlie "Juice" Manfro's 138 in the Major seems to indicate he's operating on grapefruit these days.

MULLIGAN MIKE SAYS: The Ruark nifty: Gallup was slowed to a walk and Elmo came to the end of his Roper.

Army, California Clemson, Michigan And Irish Listed

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—The unbeaten-untied ranks of major college football teams, cut almost in half over the week-end, may be sliced near the middle again Saturday.

Only five schools—Notre Dame, Michigan, Army, California and Clemson—still have perfect scores.

Both Army and Clemson face their toughest opponents of the season this week. The Cadets have the unpleasant task of meeting Pennsylvania at Philadelphia with Penn on the rebound from its 13-0 licking by Penn State. Clemson tangles with Wake Forest, 27-20 conqueror of Duke, at Winston-Salem, N. C.

And then there's the top game of the day—Northwestern vs. Notre Dame at South Bend.

Irish Meet Wildcats

The fighting Irish probably will win this one by several touchdowns, but the Wildcats definitely are above the average caliber of Notre Dame opponents this year.

Michigan and California should not have much trouble in maintaining their records. The Wolverines entertain Indiana, which was trounced, 42-6, by Notre Dame Saturday. California plays host to Washington State Friday night.

Four perfect marks were broken Saturday and Sunday. In addition to Penn's defeat, Georgia Tech lost to Tennessee, 13-6; Nevada was downed by Santa Clara, 14-0, and William and Mary held North Carolina to a 7-7 tie.

Missouri Routed

One of the biggest surprises Saturday outside the unbeaten ranks was Oklahoma's 41-7 massacre of Missouri. The Sooners caught fire for 28 points in the third quarter after a 7-7 first half.

The victory made Oklahoma a good bowl possibility and probably big seven champion, providing it can get past Kansas, which was idle Saturday.

Southern Methodist took over first place in the Southwest Conference with an unimpressive 20-14 decision over Texas A. and M. while Texas dumped unbeaten but once tied Baylor, 13-10.

Army bolstered its claim that it has a powerful a club as in the days of Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard by smothering Stanford, 43-0, in New York.

Georgia Takes Lead

In the Southeast Conference Georgia assumed the lead by defeating Florida, 20-12, as Georgia Tech was stumbling before Tennessee. Tulane, still in the title picture, stopped V. M. I., 28-7.

Oregon, which would like to win the nod over California as the west coast's Rose Bowl representative, moved past Washington, 13-7, while California had little trouble with U.C.L.A., and won 28-13.

Northwestern, the probable big nine representative at Pasadena New Year's Day since Michigan is ineligible and the Notre Dame game won't count, whipped Wisconsin, 16-7. Michigan sank the Navy, 35-0.

In the east Columbia, which blew leads in the final minutes while losing to Penn, Princeton and Cornell, tried to come from behind against Dartmouth, but fell short, 26-21. Princeton trampled Harvard, 47-7, and Canisius handed St. Bonaventure its first loss, 14-6.

We Need Will Rogers

By FRANK TRIPP

What this country has needed much as anything else for the last decade was Will Rogers. Just about the time things were ready to pop Will would say something to show ponderous people how foolish they were.

A sentence or two from the cowboy philosopher more than once closed the trap of a noisy crackpot like a clam and set the whole country into roars of laughter.

Folks understood Will. The tender ridicule he dished out seldom failed to make people see things in their real light. His humor was a national sedative.

It's a great knack, being able to set the pompous back in meetin' with a smile—and make them rather like it. Rogers was the only man in our time who could do it on a country-wide basis. Lately we've needed him awful. There are some grass-root humorists left, some pretty good ones, but none among them would claim the right to clean Will Rogers' boots.

I HAVE THOUGHT long and unhappily about Will's untimely ending. And about something else. One day, visiting with a group of advanced teen-agers, I mentioned his name.

Sheepishly, one of the youngsters said "Who was Will Rogers?".

"Don't you know; don't any of you know?" I asked. They all shook their heads.

What is fame, I thought, what is glory; is it only for those who live in its day? Can it be that a whole generation carries a wound in its heart for Will Rogers and the next, its own offspring, doesn't even know who he was?

I INQUIRED some more and found it all too true, away from his beloved Oklahoma, and the theatre which adopted him. Still the most loved, cleanest, kindest observer philosopher and humorist of latter days has been dead only 13 years.

Something is wrong—and not with Will Rogers. The kids know plenty about Karl Marx, Lenin, Wilhelm, Hitler and Mussolini. Will Rogers' wholesome life is "below the level of teachable incidents" today. Remember that phrase? The professors pulled it on the newspapers.

WILL MADE his lecture debut in Elmira from a platform where Mark Twain often spoke. He wasn't a lecturer but somebody sold him on it and he tried. The grand soul and I lived much of one Winter at the Astor, while Will subbed on Broadway for Fred Stone who had cracked up in a plane. I was there on account of another crack-up—the Brooklyn Eagle.

So when Will was going to my town I became a source for the local color he always sought. It all sounded funny beforehand but when Will got on the rostrum without his rope and chewing gum, faced by an audience of half sour pusses, it wasn't so hot.

I NEVER SAW a lecture audience anyway that didn't dare you to make 'em happy. Will found that out and soon quit the formal platform, where he didn't belong.

The day he made his debut he entertained the inmates of Elmira Reformatory. As his car entered the grounds the sirens sounded and guard posses ran hither and yon. A prisoner had escaped.

When order was restored and Will made his appearance, he started off:

"They've got up and walked out, and they've gone to sleep; but this is the first time anybody ever broke out of jail to keep from hearin' me."

SCHOOLS OF JOURNALISM turn out talent and newsrooms turn out many times as much. About ten per cent of it all gets beyond the bread and butter class. In the grist there must be somewhere, sometimes, a potential Will Rogers.

But he rarely gets a chance. He is kept on drab detail that chills his soul. He grows old on a news beat; is known as a wag in a small sphere from amusing his intimates with quaint phrases and humorous thoughts. The world and humanity lose thereby.

Only one of these boys developed in each generation would do more to keep America thinking straight than loads of lumpy logic that defies a smile.

If you want a man to think with you, a first long step is to get him to smile with you. That was Will Roger's great gift.

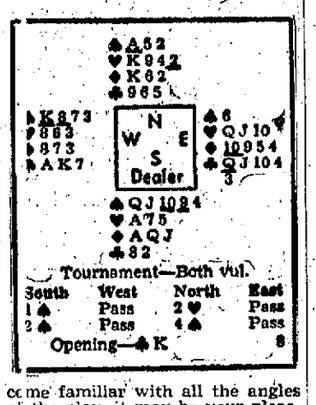
McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Smother Play Most Difficult to Detect

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

We present to you the most fascinating and difficult play in bridge, the smother play.

Every few years, by popular request, I run a series of articles on the smother play. This is the most difficult of all plays to recognize in actual competition. Few of the top ranking experts of the country have had the actual thrill of executing the play. Occasionally at the end of a hand, they suddenly realize that if they had done so and so, they could have made a smother play. If you study this week's articles carefully and become familiar with all the angles of the play, it may be your pleasure to run across one soon.



Years ago today's hand was shown to me by the late Phil Leon, of Cleveland, who was considered one of the greatest card analysts of the country.

The point is, how can West be kept from making the king of trumps?

The first two tricks are won by West with the king and ace of clubs, and the third club is trumped by declarer with the four of spades. South then leads the queen of spades, and West refuses to cover. The jack of spades is led, and again West will not cover.

Now declarer cashes three diamond tricks, the ace and king of hearts, and leads the third heart. All hands are down to the cards underlined. Dummy has the ace of spades and deuce of hearts. Declarer holds the ten and nine of trumps. East is forced to lead either the ten of diamonds or queen of clubs, either of which South will trump with the nine of spades. West has only the king-eight of spades. If he over-trumps with the king, dummy's ace will win. If he under-trumps with the eight-spot, the nine holds the trick and the ace of trumps will win the last trick.

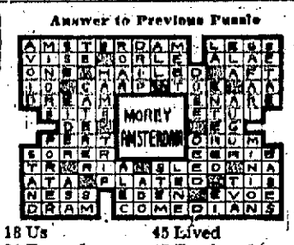
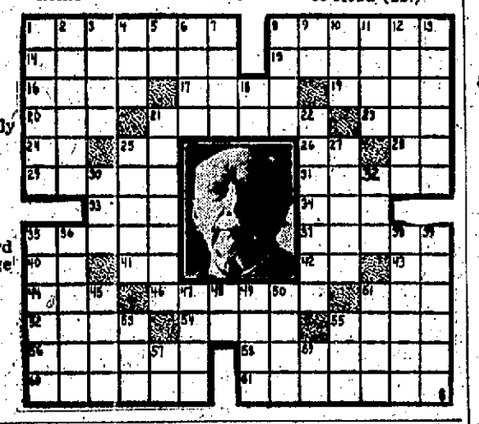
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Pitching Horseshoes
By Billy Rose

The other night at "21" I couldn't help noticing that one of our better-known detective-story writers looked as sad as a spanked spaniel.

"What's wrong with Tom?" I asked the publisher who was dining with me. "He looks as if he'd lost his last plot."

"In a way, he has," said my friend. "His wife walked out on him last week."

You could have knocked me down with a pitted olive. Of all the couples hereabouts I would have made book on, Tom and his lady were highest on my dope sheet. Not that the fictioneer was a bargain—he was given to playing around the side streets and he treated his missus like a $30-a-week housekeeper. But to Dorothy, Tom was an important talent, and she saw to it that his typewriter was oiled and his meals were hot. If he showed up with a smudge of lipstick now and then—well, that was the prerogative of genius, and it was enough if he came back and let her serve.

"Why did they break up?" I asked. "Did Dorothy finally get fed up with Tom's catting?"

"No," said the publisher. "They split because he bought her a mink coat."

"I don't believe it," I said. "Tom is a slow man with a buck, and the idea of his unbelting for a mink coat is like Vishinsky presenting Winchell with an orchid."

"I'll give you the story pelt by pelt," said the publisher. "As you know, for years a bunch of us have been meeting every Thursday night for a game of dollar poker, and at one of these sessions we got to kidding about the fur coats our wives were buying and how much they cost. One of the players—Gene Simmons, the fur dealer—began to rib Tom, and asked him how come he had never bought his wife a hunk of hide.

"'What's wrong with the coat Dorothy's got?' said the writer. 'It keeps her plenty warm.'

"'Don't hand us that,' said Gene. 'Women don't buy fur coats to keep warm—they're fuzzy sandwich-boards to advertise how well their guys are doing.'

"The kidding finally got under Tom's skin, and when we broke up, he took Simmons aside and told him he was going to send Dorothy around the next day for a mink coat.

"Well, we almost blacked out at the next session when Gene reported that Dorothy had been in and had waltzed out with a six-thousand-dollar pelt, but what we didn't know at the time was that the writer had hatched himself another plot. Tom figured that a few days after his wife got the coat, he would make a big noise about how bad the book business was, and dutiful Dotty would trot right back to Simmons with the coat.

"Where did the plot misfire?" I asked.

"In all departments," said the publisher. "First, Dorothy concluded that Tom must have done something especially naughty to come up with such a present, so she started to check up on him. And what she found out opened her baby blues.

"Second, the feel of mink on her back did nice things to her spine, and so she began to step out a bit. Several people—including Dorothy herself—told her she was something of a knockout, and as you know, girls don't like to keep that kind of information secret.

"Tom, of course, was too busy with Tom to notice any of this. One night he brought out the crying towel, told Dorothy he had a big Income tax payment to meet, and that she'd have to return the coat to Simmons first thing in the morning.

"I'll do better than that,' said his wife. 'I'll bring it back to Gene tonight—with me in it.'

"And that's only one of the plot switches the author never intended. Dorothy is wearing the coat in Reno now, but—get this—yesterday Simmons slapped a summons on Tom demanding payment for the coat. And he's got him dead to rights—even the boys at the poker game are witnesses. It looks as if our tightwad friend is going to have to buy a fur coat for a fur dealer's wife."

"Tough luck," I tsk-tsked. "It's a cute story and it has a moral, although I can't ad lib it at the moment."

"Maybe," said the publisher, "it's just that no writer of detective stories, no matter how plot-minded, knows all the twists—least of all, the twist he's married to."

Godse Collapses At Explanation Of Gandhi Slaying

New Delhi, India, Nov. 8 (AP)—Narayan Vinayak Godse collapsed in court today as he read his lengthy explanation of the slaying of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

After reading from his 93-page statement for an hour, Godse faltered, dropped the manuscript and slumped to the floor. He revived quickly after he was lifted by guards.

Godse, who said he shot the Hindu leader last January 30 "purely for the bentfit of humanity," was serious and tense as he invited the court to pass the maximum sentence of hanging.

The special court for four months has been trying Godse, a 35-year-old Brahmin, and 11 others accused of aiding and abetting him.

When the judge asked Godse today what he had to say in answer to the prosecution case against him, the prisoner gave an outline of his statement. He said he had added 25 pages to it since last Wednesday when he originally expected to deliver it.

The prosecutor contended the statement should not be included in the court record, but the judge said Godse could read it and its inclusions in the record could be argued later.

Godse, normally quiet and reserved, was impassioned as he read his statement. It expressed confidence in the "moral justification" of his act in shooting Gandhi. He appealed to posterity to "weigh my act and find the true value thereof."

He said he respected Gandhi's saintliness and "before I fired the shots I actually wished him luck and bowed to him in reverence."

The assassin said he opposed Gandhi for his concessions to the Moslems which "brought ruin to millions of Hindus."

He said the present Indian government was satisfactory from his point of view because "it is taking a course of practical politics, not Gandhian idealism."

Citing the case of Hyderabad, Godse said if Gandhi had been alive, Indian armies would not have marched into Hyderabad.

Student's Action Seen as Result of His Unhappiness

Texarkana, Ark., Nov. 8 (AP)—Two developments indicated today that H. B. Tennison, University of Arkansas student who enjoyed comic magazines and crime stories, may not have been a "phantom" killer.

Instead, it appeared possible that his suicide note implicating himself with a wave of mysterious, unsolved slayings in the Texarkana, Ark.-Tex., area in 1946, may have been a bizarre action of an unhappy young man.

The tall, slender, reserved 18-year-old student from Texarkana, Ark., took poison at Fayetteville, Ark., Friday after spending a week—by his own statements—in meditation in movies and his own room. During that time, he said, he existed mostly on candy bars.

One of the developments came from Deputy Prosecutor Robert E. Hall of Miller county. He announced here that James Freeman, 16, told him that he spent the evening of May 3, 1946, with Tennison in the latter's home listening to the radio. This was the night Virgil Starks was shot to death by an unknown assailant.

Tennison's "confession" note said he slew Starks and two high school students—three of the five victims of the so-called "phantom."

Hall said Freeman fixed the date this way—he recalled hearing a radio newscast about Starks' death. The prosecutor said Freeman came to him last night after reading newspaper accounts of Tennison's suicide.

The other development was disclosed by Sheriff Bruce Crider in Fayetteville. He said another note found among Tennison's effects requested: "Please disregard all other messages I have written."

There were three principal notes, each typed in a rambling style and worded in the nature of a final message. The sheriff said he didn't know which of the notes actually was written last.

Crider and officers here awaited a report from an Austin, Tex., laboratory where Tennison's fingerprints are being checked against some found on an automobile in which Teen-Agers Betty Jo Booker and Paul Martin went for their last ride. They were killed the night of April 14, 1946. Another couple were slain three weeks earlier.

has sent word around to the various government departments that they will have to contend with "a hard boiled budget policy."

Budget Director James E. Webb told reporters about it after a talk with Mr. Truman last Saturday. He said he and the President went over fund requests for 16 departments and agencies, and in most cases decided to hold the amounts below those Congress voted for this year.

Webb did not say which agencies were involved, but he did make clear that the military services were not among them.

New York Begins Its Campaign Against VD

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—An intensive month-long campaign against venereal diseases starts in New York city today.

Forty-five billion units of penicillin will be distributed free to physicians and hospital out-patient departments for treatment of early syphilis and gonorrhea.

Joint sponsors of the drive are "the city department of health, state health department and U. S. Public Health Service.

A program of public information will accompany the treatment phase, in an effort to lessen the city's estimated 250,000 "hidden" cases of venereal disease.

Meyers' Conviction

chief purchasing officer for the air force during the war.

In summary, the charges made against him amounted to this:

Meyers was the actual owner of the Aviation Electric Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, which received profitable war contracts, but hired Bleriot H. La Marre to act as "dummy" president of the concern. When the Senate investigation got underway, Meyers persuaded La Marre to testify falsely.

In testimony to the committee, Lamarre first said Meyers had no connection with the firm but later, giving what he said was the truth, testified Meyers did own it.

Meyers contended throughout that he was innocent, but was tried and convicted of subordination to perjury.

Judges Wilbur K. Miller and James M. Proctor handed down the majority opinion in the Court of Appeals. Judge E. Barrett Prettyman dissented.

The majority opinion written by Judge Miller held that the prosecution in the District Court trial proved that Lamarre falsely told the Senate subcommittee:

1. That Meyers had no financial interest in the Aviation Electric Corporation.

2. That the company did not buy a Cadillac car for Meyers during the war and,

3. That a $10,000 decorating job at the Meyers' apartment in the hotel here was not paid for out of company funds.

that union leaders sign non-communism affidavits under the Taft-Hartley Act. (The organized employers had, until now, refused to bargain further with unions whose leaders had not signed—which ruled out both longshoremen and cooks).

The strike began September 2 after a longshore demand for a 15-cent wage increase to $1.82 an hour; employers offered 10 cents. Also in dispute was future control of the union hiring hall, by which maritime workers were assigned to jobs.

The new agreement specifies that in the future disputes, the employers' council "will not give its support" to any employer unless the employer has given due notice of—and obtained council approval of — any action "which may result in a strike or lockout." Similarly, the National C.I.O. would deny its support to its local unions unless they likewise had given due notice of—and obtained C.I.O. approval of—any union "intention to strike."

Waterborne commerce of the Pacific Coast, normally about $4,000,000 a day, virtually has been halted by the tieup.

About 28,000 men are out on strike. Employers have estimated the payroll lost at about $10,800,000 a month.

moved his necktie and tied it around the woman's throat.

Providence Police Lt. Thomas P. Dunn said Williams drove to police headquarters in Providence and said:

"I've just killed my girl friend."

Dunn said he found Mrs. Singleton's body in the rear seat of the car.

Williams, an unemployed cook, told police he had been keeping company with Mrs. Singleton since his discharge from the navy in 1945.

Loses Arm, Seeks Help

Boring, Ore., Nov. 8 (AP)—A lumber mill worker suffered the loss of his arm cut at the shoulder yesterday and then walked over a mile to this town to get an ambulance to Portland. State police said Henry Francis Meeker, age 62, of Sandy, was given a "fair" chance of recovering at a Portland Hospital. He was cleaning a planer at a mill near here when his right garment sleeve tangled in the machine and pulled his arm into the cutter. He was alone. He first attempted to drive the distance in his automobile.

N. Y. Cancer Head Says Diagnosis in Early Stages Helps

Series of Meetings Will Be Held for Discussion on Various Aspects of Disease

The three objectives of cancer control — prevention, treatment and care—were discussed by Dr. Paul Gerhardt, director of the New York State Health Department Bureau of Cancer Control, at a recent meeting of about 80 Ulster county physicians, dentists and nurses in the Kingston City Laboratory.

288 new cases of cancer among residents of this area were reported in 1947 according to statistics from the New York State Health Department cited by Dr. Gerhardt.

About 17 per cent of these cases were reported as in the early stages of the disease. Of the total cases reported, 53 per cent were in men; 47 per cent were in women.

A hopeful note, stated Dr. Gerhardt, is the fact that the most common form of cancer in men, skin and lip, and three of the most common forms of cancer in women, breast, skin and uterus, are among those discovered earliest leading to successful treatment. It would appear, then, that prompt attention to early symptoms should result in early diagnosis and a high percentage of cures in the great majority of these cases, Dr. Gerhardt continued.

Prevention, Dr. Gerhardt explained, lies in four areas. One, research in the field of occupational cancer in industries where cancer producing substances, such as tar and pitch, are used. Two, elimination of prolonged exposure to X-ray and ultra-violet light which causes cancer of the skin. Three, prevention by searching for and treating pre-cancerous conditions. Four, education of those found to be exposed to cancer in any of the ways stated above.

Diagnosis and treatment, Dr. Gerhardt said, is a problem for the physician, dentist and nurse as well as a problem of providing adequate treatment facilities through the promotion of tumor clinics and cancer detection centers.

Dr. Gerhardt discussed the wide gap in facilities for care of cancer patients and the fact that as the population grows older there is more need for facilities to take care of those who have chronic diseases such as cancer.

Miss Adele Didricksen, director of Ulster County Public Health Nursing, and Dr. J. Spottiswood Taylor, director of the Kingston City Laboratory, have arranged a series of meetings planned primarily for public health nurses to discuss the various aspects of cancer.

Doctors, dentists and nurses were invited to the opening session. The next conference on pathology to be given by Dr. Taylor will be announced shortly. All interested nurses are invited to attend.

Barrows' Parents Unite in Defense Of Their Son, 19

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—A divorced couple united today in defense of their 19-year-old son, charged with slaying a Canadian business man at the Waldorf Astoria hotel here.

"We'll stick together for the kid," the father, Ralph Van Nostrun Barrows, said following a reunion with his former wife, Mrs. Yvonne Burdick, 39, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

"This is a completely unbelievable thing," exclaimed the mother who said she had come here to defend her son. The parents, divorced in 1942, have another child.

The accused youth, Ralph Edward Barrows, was held without bail today after pleading innocent to the slaying of Colin Cameron MacKellar, 56-year-old textile executive. MacKellar's body was found Friday in his hotel suite. Death was attributed to a fractured skull and internal injuries.

The couple conferred with a legal aid society attorney today, preparatory to visiting Ralph in his Tombs jail cell.

Barrows, a merchant seaman, carried a canvas bag in which he said was a change of clothing for his son.

Assistant District Attorney Harold Birns has quoted young Barrows as saying he struck MacKellar after they got into a fight in the executive's hotel room. He said the youth related that MacKellar had invited him there for a drink after they met at a Times Square bar.

Thousands of Ducks Die

Montreal, Nov. 8 (AP)—Thousands of dead ducks floated down the St. Lawrence river today. About 20,000 birds died through starvation, exposure and pneumonia after they were rendered helpless by oil-polluted wafers of Lake St. Peter, government game officials said. The ducks—mostly blacks, bluebills and whistlers—landed on the lake on their way south. The oil, believed to have been released by a grounded tanker, soaked their wings and kept them in the water. Ninety-five per cent of the flock was lost, game officials said. Oliver Hewitt of the Dominion Wild Life Service said there was no chance of saving many of the birds.

Gridder Dies

Massena, N. Y., Nov. 8 (AP)—Frank Eagles, Jr., 17, died Saturday in Massena Memorial Hospital of injuries suffered in a sandlot football game on Oct. 31. He suffered a ruptured kidney, hospital officials said.

vacancy caused by the death of Paul A. Zucca.

Proposition A, which amended the charter to provide higher minimum salaries for members of the fire department, was approved by a vote of 9,597 to 1,071, the canvass disclosed.

There was no contest on any of the figures. They are the same as the unofficial figures reported Wednesday, with the exception of two additional votes in favor of the proposition, making the total for the proposition 9,597 instead of 9,595 as previously reported. The error was in the count of votes in the Sixth Ward, second district, where 184 favorable votes were reported Wednesday morning, but the canvass disclosed 186 favorable votes had been cast.

The First Ward alderman and the Proposition A elections were the only two to come before the council today, as they were the only two matters voted upon solely by the voters of the city.

Difficulty was experienced, as in past years, in obtaining a quorum for the meeting, which must be held at 10 a. m. on the Monday following election day, according to the city charter. During the meeting, the aldermen present expressed dissatisfaction with the time of the meeting, because those who are employed for other persons are many times unable to attend a morning meeting, and the aldermen signified their intention of bringing the matter before a regular meeting in an attempt to pass a local law amending the charter to provide for the canvass of votes to be held during an evening meeting.

The only aldermen present when the meeting was scheduled to come to order this morning were Paul Schatzel, Randall Kelder, Charles D. Cole and Alderman-at-Large Charles J. Turck. After making several telephone calls, City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer located Alderman Edwin Sammons, Abram D. Relyea, James E. Martin and John Dawkins, to form the required quorum of seven members in addition to the presiding officer.

as clerk-typist to the committee on Un-American Activities." The grand jury said these claims were fraudulent because Miss Hill had rendered no services to the committee.

Court officials said that conviction on all the charges against Thomas would carry a possible maximum sentence of 32 years in prison, $40,000 in fines, or both.

George Morris Fay, U. S. district attorney, said the court was notified that Thomas will appear Tuesday of next week for arraignment.

Fay said the trial, under normal procedures, could not take place before January.

The indictment charges Thomas with 34 "overt acts," that is specific instances of wrongdoing.

Senators Young (R.-N.D.) and Flanders (R.-Vt.) also told a reporter they will support such proposals and at the same time try to inject younger blood in the leadership of their party.

NewYorkerAdmits He Passed Check

A 28-year-old New York man pleaded innocent in city court today to a charge of passing, at a local hotel, a $25 check for which there were no funds on deposit. City Judge Matthew V. Cahill adjourned the case until November 15 and the man is being held in lieu of $500 cash bail.

The warrant, charging petit larceny, on which the man was arrested was in the name, Anthony Carmody, although police said he was also known as Walter Johannesen, which name he gave in court today. He told the court he is 28 years old and lives in the Bronx.

Johanneson was brought to this city Saturday by Detectives Clarence Brophy and William Krum from Greenbank, Delaware, where he had been in custody. The warrant on which he was arraigned charged he passed a $25 "bad" check at The Huntington, 23 Pearl street. Although this is the only charge against him at present, Police Captain William T. Roedell said the man is under suspicion of passing other checks in this city and that other charges may be pressed.

Congestion Is Cause Of Singer's Death

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—An autopsy disclosed yesterday that congestion of the viscera caused the death of Victoria Schools, 25-year-old radio singer who was found dead in her apartment Saturday.

The congestion of the viscera indicated a blood condition in the organs, said Dr. B. Morgan Vance, who performed the autopsy. He said the report was a temporary diagnosis.

The beautiful singer died, police said, shortly after swallowing two pills. The nature of the pills was not stated, and chemical analysis of the victim's organs was planned to determine whether poison was present.

Miss Schools had been under care of a physician recently, a theatrical agent said. She was described by friends as a former singer with the Rudy Vallee orchestra and a supporting player in the 1941 Broadway musical, "Best Foot Forward."

Governor Hanley Enters Hospital for Eye Treatment

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 8 (AP)—Acting Gov. Joe R. Hanley entered Albany Hospital today for treatment of an eye condition.

A hospital announcement said only that Hanley was admitted for treatment of his right eye and that his condition was "satisfactory."

The Lieutenant Governor cancelled all engagements for the week. He is acting chief state executive in the absence of Governor Dewey who is vacationing in Tucson, Ariz.

Hanley suffered a broken blood vessel in an eye several weeks ago. His office said today it was believed additional complications had developed.

The 72-year-old state executive campaigned extensively for Dewey in the weeks before last Tuesday's election.

He underwent a two-day physical examination in Hudson City Hospital early last month. Afterward he said the checkup showed he was in good condition.

Dewey Begins Rest At Arizona Ranch

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 8 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York today began a two-week rest at an Arizona guest ranch.

When Dewey visited Arizona during his unsuccessful campaign for the presidency on the Republican ticket, he promised to return to enjoy more of the state's warm sun. Before leaving New York by plane yesterday he said he was keeping that campaign promise.

"What we need most," Dewey said on his arrival last night, "is sun and rest."

In the party with him are his mother, Mrs. Annie Dewey; his wife and their two sons.

The Dewey party received a real wild west welcome when their American Airlines plane came into the airport here from Chicago. A group of 20 vigilantes dashed forward, firing their 45's in welcome.

Acting Gov. Dan E. Garvey of Arizona, who won election on the Democratic ticket for the governorship in last Tuesday's voting, extended the official greetings of the state to Mr. Dewey.

Also in the welcoming party was Al Beuhman, Republican, who lost in the contest for Congress from the second Arizona congressional district.

Dewey's plane was an hour late in arriving, due to head winds. But the delay did not dismay the crowd that gathered to cheer his return to Arizona. The crowd broke through police lines and the Dewey party had some difficulty getting away from it. Dewey is staying at the El Conquistador guest ranch here.

Head of Engineers Named Woman of Year

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—Dr. Lillian Moller Gilbreth, 70-year-old management engineer and mother of eleven children, has been named America's "Woman of the Year" by the American Women's Association.

Mrs. Gilbreth, president of Gilbreth, Inc., a Montclair firm of consulting engineers, is a leader in the study of human motion to attain peak efficiency in industry.

She received the association's award at the annual friendship dinner meeting.

Mrs. Fanny S. Sweeney, a member of the award committee, said in making the presentation that Dr. Gilbreth and her associates are "responsible for discovering recognizing and formulating the laws of human motion which in industry are accepted today as fundamental."

The Montclair firm was established by Mrs. Gilbreth and by her husband, the late Dr. Frank B. Gilbreth.

Yokohama, Nov. 8 (AP)—One Japanese was sentenced to be hanged, another to life imprisonment and six others to a total of 30 years at hard labor for their parts in the infamous Palawan massacre of Americans in the Philippines. The sentences were handed down by an Eighth Army military commission. The massacre occurred on Dec. 14, 1944, when 150 Americans were herded into an air raid shelter, doused with gasoline and set afire. Some who tried to flee were shot, bayoneted or beheaded. Convict, 23, Dies After His Wedding

Bellefonte, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—David P. Taranow, 23-year-old convicted slayer who was married in a prison ceremony last Friday, died in the electric chair early today.

Taranow was driven to the central Pennsylvanian prison here last night after spending a 10-hour honeymoon holding hands with his bride—auburn-haired Stella Noto of Brooklyn, N. Y.—in the warden's office at Broadmeadows prison, Media, Pa., where they were married.

The ceremony was performed by a prison guard who is also a justice of the peace. Present were Taranow's parents and his nine-months-old daughter, child of the girl he married.

Taranow, a New Yorker, was sentenced to die in the electric chair for the holdup-slaying of Francis L. Devon, July 9, 1947. A three-judge court said the slaying was "coldly planned" and "coldly executed" by Taranow who had been picked up by Devon as a hitchhiker.

After the wedding, Taranow sat holding his bride's hand until guards ended the strange honeymoon to drive him to Bellefonte.

In leaving his bride, Taranow said only one word—"goodbye"—as he walked from the warden's office. He went to the electric chair calmly.

Uprisings Cost 6,000 Lives in Sections of Korea

Seoul, Nov. 8 (AP)—Home Minister T. Y. Yoon of the South Korean republic today reported mass uprisings in Russian controlled northern Korea have cost upwards of 6,000 lives in the past few days.

A spokesman for the U. S. Army in South Korea said no confirmation of Yoon's sensational statement, made to newsmen, had been received at headquarters.

Yoon said he believed the attempted revolt occurred in eight northern cities, including Pyongyang, the capital of North Korea. His information, he said, was that the revolt had been put down. However, another cabinet officer who declined to be quoted by name said he had information the fighting was continuing and that an estimated 150,000 men were involved.

Yoon said his informants pictured the rebellion against the Communist regime as one of desperation.

The home minister declared that 6,000 anti-Communists were slain a week ago at Hamheung and Wonsan, ports northeast of Seoul.

North Koreans, Yoon said, were hungry and cold. They marched on well armed Korean Communists with only sticks for weapons, he said.

Pup Makes Boy Happy

Orchard Park, N. Y., Nov. 2 (AP) A new Beagle puppy has made nine-year-old Jimmy Nostrand happy in a wheel chair. Jimmy, crippled since birth, had been mourning the death of his puppy, Skippy, under the wheels of an automobile in nearby Buffalo. The boy is a patient in the Children's Hospital Cerebral Palsy School there. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nostrand of Port Byron drove their son here yesterday to get the pup offered by a couple in memory of their own little boy. "When the puppy was placed in his arms, Jimmy was so happy he just hugged it to his chest," Jimmy's father said. "Right away we named it Skippy."

Blonde Took Cash; She Likes Entertaining

Philadelphia, Nov. 8 (AP)—A blonde $40-a-week novelty shop worker accused of embezzling $34,479 from her employer over the past two years told police she took the money because she liked to entertain.

"I like this way of living, and I couldn't do it on $40 a week," detectives yesterday quoted 31-year-old Mrs. Helen Morganstein as saying when she was arrested in her well furnished apartment.

She was charged with embezzling the money from Brantz Co., dealers in novelties and toys.

Detectives said the woman told them she spent most of the money entertaining friends at New York theatres and on trips to Atlantic City and other resorts.

Mrs. Morganstein told detectives her husband, Louis, knew nothing of her business activities.

"Louis is innocent," detectives quoted her as saying. "He never questioned me in connection with my expenditures and never knew a thing about it."
